INTRODUCTION

This collection may be used for study purposes. In other words we have tried to identify a set of problems of early education and to suggest some solutions.

Focused on specialized literature and on our previous researches, the articles want to convey to the readers the possibilities of better understand the new guidelines for early learning strategies. The authors describe some aspects of an educational offer for early childhood in an information era, and in specific situations of life.

The need for changes in the early childhood education is visible and series of reforms have been implemented in Romanian preschool education. Our experience suggests that there is a problem of perception in our country with respect to child preschool-education.

On the other hand, the new strategy of continuous teacher education will be a determinant factor for improving the quality of Romanian schools and kindergartens.

Compared with other field there are particular challenges in early childhood education. This collection has a pedagogical theoretical approach to the field together with a practical aspect directed towards the opportunities for child development.
